OPTIMISTIC TONE.

Hopes Are Expressed at Sofia That War May After All Be Averted.

THE POWERS HAVE INTERVENED.

Turkey Will Adopt Energetic Measures to Suppress the Revolution as Speedily as Possible.

The Whole Situation at Present Is Reported as Being Distinctly Better Than at Any Time For Some Weeks Past.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 19.—A distinctly optimistic tone now pervades government and diplomatic circles here and hopes are again expressed that war may after all be averted.

From London and Constantinople encouraging news has been received. From London it is reported that the British government will send a fleet to Turkish waters, while reports from Constantinople say that Great Britain, France and Italy have intervened to prevent the continuance of massacres in Macedonia. It is said that Thursday the representatives of these powers advised the sultan of their dissatisfaction with the methods of suppressing the outbreak and declared that the massacres must be stopped.

The porte is said to have replied that Turkey is simply carrying out the wishes expressed by the powers, who urge the sultan's government to adopt energetic measures to suppress the revolution as speedily as possible. The report that these powers have taken such action has been received with great satisfaction by the Bulgarian ministry.

The diplomatic corps here also appears to be more relieved that Turkey has taken the news of Bulgaria's mobilization steps much more quietly than was anticipated. At the present moment the whole situation is reported as being distinctly better than at any time for some two weeks past.

A special dispatch from Bila, says several Bulgarian bands under Capt. Stoyanoff attacked Meilik, province of Seres, 65 miles northeast of Salonica. Two regiments of infantry with cavalry and infantry in support were sent from Djoumaia to relieve the garrison, and they forced the insurgents to retire to the mountains where they are pursued by the troops.

Desperate fighting is reported to be proceeding in a defile of the valley of the Struma, near Kresna, between Turkish troops and bands under Gen. Zontcheff. Reinforcements of troops have been sent from Seres. Nazir Pasha, Turkish commander at Monastir, is reported to have declared to the consuls there, "We have had one insurrection. It will be the last in this territory."

The Young Men's Christian Union in Sofia has issued an appeal to the Christian unions in Europe and may ask them to make September 27 a day of general intercession on behalf of the Macedonians.

ALLEGED IMPOSTOR ARRESTED.

Boston Jewellers Believe They Have Escaped Considerable Loss.

Boston, Sept. 19.—By the arrest Friday on suspicion of a man who at first called himself H. Cohen, of Canton, O., but who later said he was a resident of Columbus, O., several jewelry firms in Boston believe they have escaped a considerable loss at the hands of a clever impostor. Cohen bought considerable jewelry from several firms, giving drafts on the City bank at Columbus, O., and ordering that the goods be shipped to Canton, O. At one store, however, where he had already placed an order, he bought a second lot, of which he desired immediate possession. This aroused suspicion and the head of the firm communicated with Canton. He learned that there was a reputable merchant in that city of the name of H. Cohen and from him a reply was received that if any person was purchasing goods in Boston in his name, the man was an impostor.

TUESDAY'S STORM.

Estimated That 125 Lives Were Lost on the Atlantic Coast.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 19.—Capt. Bussels, of the Atlantic Fishing Co., at Cape Charles, Va., who brought safely into port the fishing steamer Atlantic, said Friday that there can not be any doubt that the Atlantic's sister ship Beatrice, founded during the recent storm, going down with all hands aboard. The Beatrice carried a crew of 30 men. Capt. Bussels says he does not believe that the fishing steamer Swan, of Harborton, Va., founded in the storm and expresses the opinion that the Swan has by this time made harbor.

Marine men estimate that as many as 125 lives were lost at sea along the coast in Tuesday night's gale, which was unquestionably the worst storm in the memory of present Atlantic coast navigators.

MURDER AND ROBBERY.

Body of Woman Found in An Attic With Skull Crushed.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Lying face downward in a pool of blood, with her skull crushed in two places, the body of Mrs. Mary Spilka, 49 years old, was found Friday night in the attic of her home at 358 West Eighteenth street. Several feet from the body the police found a heavy, bloody cobblestone.

Further investigation has proved that robbery was the motive for the crime, as the pocket of the woman's dress had been cut with a knife and more than $200, representing the savings of many years, which she is known to have had in her possession, is missing.

Late Friday night the police arrested Lewis Peasant, a neighbor of the Spilka family. He denies all knowledge of the crime.

J. B. Little Gives Sensational Testimony in the Curtis Jett Murder Trial.

THREATENED TO KILL COCKRILL.

After the Assassination the Accused Man Appeared in Front of the Courthouse.

Little's Testimony Was Corroborated By Chas. Robinson, D. D. Hurst and A. S. Johnson—There Will Be No Confession Made.

Cynthiana, Ky., Sept. 19.—In the case of Curtis Jett, now on trial for the alleged assassination of Jim Cockrill, seven witnesses testified for the commonwealth Friday afternoon. All of them in some way or other corroborated other witnesses which have testified. Tom and Kelly Mann corroborated witnesses Friday morning who swore that Jett had said that no one could shoot him off the streets of Jackson, referring to the fact of a difficulty between Jett and Cockrill about a week before the assassination. The main and most sensational feature of the evening was the testimony of J. B. Little, who said he saw Cockrill running at the time of the shooting and immediately afterward Jett appeared in front of the courthouse. He heard Jett say a week before the assassination in the house of Mrs. Sam Mans that he would kill Cockrill on sight, and that he (Jett) never promised to do anything but that he carried it out. Little, when Cockrill was killed, ran to him and he (Cockrill) said to him, "Some one shot me from the courthouse." Little's testimony is corroborated by Charles Robinson as to the position of Little when the shots were fired, and as to Jett coming out of the courthouse a minute after the shooting.

D. D. Hurst saw a blue mist like the shots were fired from smokeless powder at the time of the shooting and corroborated Little in his testimony. A. S. Johnson saw both Jett and Spicer at the door of the courthouse immediately after the shooting with guns drawn.

Blanton, attorney for Jett, says there will be no confession. Conditionally the commonwealth rested unless some of the absent witnesses come in Friday afternoon, if not they, rest and defense will begin Saturday.

SALVATION ARMY CAVALRY.

Col. Holz's Command Starts For Magoffin County, Kentucky.

Jackson, Ky., Sept. 19.—Col. Richard Holz, in command of perhaps the first Salvation cavalry in the country, left here Friday for Magoffin county. The members of the Salvation army are unused to horseback riding and furnished amusement to the natives. The difficulty resulted in securing mounts, as horses are scarce in this section. The mountaineers feel kindly toward the Salvationists and listened to them with marked attention. Col. Holz expects to reconnoiter with his party and if the prospects are sufficiently inviting will establish a permanent location in the mountains. He said: "I find the mountain people have been greatly misrepresented in point of intelligence and morals. So far as I have been able to determine no section where more native intelligence prevails, and with proper advantages and inducements they will rival any section. Can't say yet what effect we will have on feuds and feudists."

London, Ky., Sept. 19.—The funeral of Judge Vincent Boreing took place Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Southern Methodist church, Rev. G. I. Jolly performing the rites. Only about one-third of the people could find standing room in the building, and when the body was borne from the church to the grave the largest concourse ever gathered in this city followed.

Throughout the entire county Friday was a day of mourning. Business was suspended, and the schools dismissed that even the children might pay a last tribute to the honored dead. Hundreds viewed the body, both at the church and the grave, and it was only a few minutes before sunset when the remains were laid to rest. Honorary pallbearers who attended the funeral were: J. A. Craft, Louisville; Stephen G. Sharp, Lexington; Judge W. H. Holt, Frankfort; Judge J. H. Tinsley, Barbourville; Boone Logan, Pineville; A. T. Siler, Williamsburg; Congressman C. Slemple, Virginia. DETECTIVE'S WORK

Probably Fatally Wounded Chief of Police Heuke at the Tri-State Fair Grounds.

POLICE CAPTAIN MORTALLY HURT

Alderman Frank Lutz Was Seriously Injured, After Which the Shooter Put Bullet Through His Brain.

The Tragedy Was the Result of a Long Existing Quarrel and Was Witnessed By at Least 100 People.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 19.—After shooting and probably fatally wounding Chief of Police Fred Heuke and Capt. Brennecke, of the police department, and seriously injuring Frank Lutz, a councilman of Booneville, Ind., Detective Thomas Hutchens Friday night sent a bullet through his brain. He died instantly.

The tragedy was the result of a long existing quarrel between Brennecke and Hutchens. The cause is not known. The shooting occurred at the Tri-State fair grounds Friday night. At least 100 people were in the tent where the shooting was done. Neither Chief Heuke nor Capt. Brennecke had opportunity to defend themselves. Five minutes before the shooting Detective Hutchens, in conversation with Patrolman Crow and Fireman Heberer, made the remark with an oath that there were two men he intended to get even with.

Patrolman Crow was sitting at a table near the entrance of the German village with Hutchens when Chief Heuke and Capt. Brennecke entered. He jumped to his feet and started for the detective as soon as the first shot was fired.

He did not reach him, however, until both the chief and the captain had been struck. Hutchens then threw the gun over his shoulder and fired the shot that struck Lutz. Whether he intended the shot for Heuke or Patrolman Crow is not known. Both men were in the line of fire and it is probable he intended to kill Crow for attempting to interfere. After he had fired four shots Hutchens walked outside the tents, and saying, "No man will ever live to see me tried," placed the revolver to his right temple and sent his last bullet into his brain.

Capt. Brennecke reeled backward and staggered along the side of the tent and fell. Without moving out of his tracks Hutchens sent another bullet after him which struck him on the left arm. Just as Brennecke fell Chief Heuke sprang toward Hutchens, who leveled his revolver and sent a bullet into his right breast. The chief staggered toward the rear of the tent and fell. The fourth shot fired, either at him or Patrolman Crow, struck Lutz, who was sitting at a table a few feet from where the chief had fallen.

The hundred or more people in the tent had rushed from the tent before the last shot was fired. In the panic they broke through the sidewalks or took refuge behind the bar.

Six years ago Hutchens shot at Brennecke in a saloon but the bullet lodged in the ceiling. It is believed that the conviction Friday afternoon of William Trimble, one of the men who took part in the riots of July 5 and 6, had something to do with hastening the tragedy.

Capt. Brennecke has been one of the most active workers for the state and it is said that his activity against the rioters increased Hutchens' animosity. It is not known that the men had any trouble Friday. They were seen together several times and from all appearances were on good terms.

Capt. Brennecke is still unconscious. Frank Lutz is shot through the right lung. He is believed to be fatally hurt.

All three men attacked by the detective were shot in the right lung. Dr. Gilbert announced Saturday morning that the chances for the recovery of any of the wounded men were slight. The men have had a few moments of consciousness during the night. The body of Hutchens was taken by the ambulance to the morgue.

J. R. ROBERTSON,
Chairman Executive Committee.
Gordon Sulser, Secretary.

THE Assistant Warden of the Ohio penitentiary is one of the numerous throng who believe that "public office is a private snap." He has been using some of the convicts in the construction of his new home. The painting and papering of the house was done by the prisoners, guards from the pen having charge of them while they were at work. The plumbing was also done by the convicts. In fact the Assistant Warden was making the State pay for his new home as far as it was possible to do so by utilizing the convicts. Fortunately this Republican (that is his politics) was detected, and it now remains to be seen how he is punished. He should be put behind the bars with the other criminals.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

The Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal pays the following left-handed compliment to President Roosevelt: "It is a fact that on his recent tour the railroad company (the Pennsylvania) on which he started from Washington, and in which he returned, paid all the bills."

In view of the fact that the President had only a few weeks before he entered on this tour signed the union station act, which appropriated millions of dollars to that particular company, this is an exceedingly grave accusation.

The Springfield Republican publishes under the headline, "The Cost of the Tour," a very severe criticism of the President's course in this matter. "It is a subject," says another journal, "which Congress should not fail to investigate, lest its own members fall under the suspicion of sustaining similar relations to the same railroad company. Every year the same railroad company entertains as its guests at Atlantic City all the correspondents of the great daily newspapers, paying not only traveling expenses, but all other expenses of those who accept its hospitality."

It is fortunate for the Democratic party that its members in Congress opposed this railroad legislation almost unanimously.

BELKNAP.

Republican Nominee Ignoring Real Issues of Campaign.

Doesn't Controvert the Imposing Array of Facts and Figures Presented by Governor Beckham.

[Courier-Journal.]

Like his competitor, Col. Belknap seems ambitious to wage an aggressive campaign. Most of his speech is devoted to attacks on the administration of Gov. Beckham. But he is careful not to traverse the imposing array of facts and figures presented by the Governor in his Winchester speech. He is content to insist that he ought to have done better. But in his anxiety to attack he leaves out much that he is called upon to defend. While quoting certain expressions from some of the Governor's Democratic competitors he singularly forgets to say anything about the remarks made by his own competitors for the nomination, and by a gentleman who was pushed for the nomination without his consent. Nor has Col. Belknap a word of censure for the acts done during the brief administration of Gov. Taylor, the reign of terror, the illegal use of troops, the dispersing of the Legislature, the attempt to send it away from Frankfort to a mountain town, the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and finally the murder of Gov. Goebel.

Col. Belknap attacks the administration of justice in Kentucky in a way that shows he had been a close student of the columns of two or three partisan newspapers that have persistently and unscrupulously perverted or suppressed the facts. But while he holds out the idea that his Republican brethren have been persecuted by the action of partisan courts, he knows that none of them has been punished after the lapse of three years and a half, except one who was once held to be as innocent as the rest, but who has lost sympathy by the unpardonable crime of making a confession. There is no lament from Col. Belknap on account of the failure to bring the other conspirators to justice, but, on the contrary, an undertone of unmistakable sympathy for them in their trials. He refuses to say whether he will pardon the Goebel murderers, but he knows what is expected of him.

The picture which Col. Belknap draws of Kentucky will not be recognized by most of the residents of the State, who have been dwelling in peace and security, enjoying prosperity and happiness. Of the "tragic panorama" he says that "not the slightest gleam of satisfaction" comes from it. "It seems heavy tragedy." Nay, more, "Repulsive and reeking with the foul atmosphere of dungeons, it displays a body prostituted to perjury and fraud." Such is Col. Belknap's imaginative view of the condition of the State over which he aspires to rule. That is his way of advertising the State.

What is the remedy proposed for this state of things? Simply a change of parties. Turn out the men who represent the better element of the State and put in men chosen by a party one-third of whose votes are negroes, and another element which formed the mountain armies that rendered life and property insecure at the State capital. All we need is a business man as Governor, who, somehow, is going to be able to dispel the specters of perjury and fraud, and make everybody secure and happy.

Finally, without traversing the figures of Gov. Beckham, Col. Belknap tries his hand at State finances, which ought to be peculiarly in the province of a business man. He begins by saying that Gov. Bradley left a balance in the State Treasury of $1,100,614.97. The Auditor's report shows that on July 1, 1899, there was a balance of $395,148.70. If there was such a balance as Col. Belknap names on the following December, it was because of the large payments of revenue into the Treasury in November and part of December, which always come in about that time. But Gov. Bradley did not turn over this money to the Democrats. On the 26th of February, 1900, when Democrats took charge, there was a cash balance of $363,334.51. Yet Col. Belknap, in pursuance of his business instincts, charges the Democrats with more than eleven hundred thousand dollars, and after guessing at the amount that they collected up to July 1, 1903, giving no credit for the balance, concludes that the expenditures are $5,000,000 a year. This method figuring makes a bad showing for a business man.

An Explanation!

Don't judge our stock of underwear, as to quantity—by what you see on the first floor. Moving has begun and the confusion it entails—behind the scenes, the convenience of the shopper will not be disturbed—makes it impossible to give the space to the muslin undergarments that our stock justifies.

One of each style, in the lower priced garments, you will find as you enter the store, all the more elaborate underwear is up stairs, which does not necessarily imply a climb for you, as accommodating sales women are ready to bring the garments to you for inspection. The old expression "What you don't see, ask for," fits the occasion.

D. HUNT & SON.

There Are Certain Essential Qualities

Which every well tailored garment should possess. Some of these are easily distinguished, while others of equal, if not greater importance, cannot be known until the garments have been tested by wear. The substitute of inferior interlinings where durable Irish linen is required will not change the outward appearance of a coat—though it quickly makes itself evident when subjected to the strain of service. The coat loses its shape then, because the foundation is weak. This is one of many instances showing why it is safer and cheaper to buy clothes of a reliable make. For the guidance and protection of the clothes-buying public, we put our name in every garment of our make—in fact we do more. Only the highest quality of materials are used in Kuppenheimer Guaranteed Clothes. They are shaped and tailored by master craftsmen, and with our system of inspection, we make certain that each garment is correct in every detail. "Way Down East" as presented at the opera house last night was above the average in theatrical entertainments. The scenic effects were on an elaborate scale, while the songs, interspersed at intervals during the play by a quartette, added much to the enjoyment of the performance. The time taken up in arranging the scenes occasioned tiresome waits, however, and it was nearly 12 o'clock before the performance closed.

Republican Nominee For Governor Makes His First Visit to Maysville.

Col. Morris B. Belknap, Republican nominee for Governor, spent yesterday and last night in Maysville. On his arrival from Carlisle he was driven to the Central Hotel, where he spent the forenoon meeting the faithful who called to see the one whom the Sapp machine at Louisville had forced on the party for their nominee. Invitations had been sent out the previous evening, which would naturally raise the question among those not thus favored whether it was a free-for-all reception or not.

In the afternoon Col. Belknap enjoyed a drive over the city with Postmaster Mathews, Mr. R. A. Cochran and others, and was prevailed on to remain over and speak at the G. A. R. bean-bake and camp-fire near the car barns last night. The evening was a little "frosty" and the crowd that heard him was not very large. The speaking was only announced by hand bills, and was not very widely known. Col. Belknap left this morning for Vanceburg.

Confident of Victory.

[Enquirer.]

Congressman J. N. Kehoe, of Maysville, one of the leading Democratic politicians of that State, was at the Grand Hotel Tuesday en route home from Carrollton. To some friends he said: "There is not a doubt in my mind but that Governor Beckham will again be elected Governor of Kentucky by a very large majority. I have talked with a great many men throughout the State, and they tell me there is little disaffection among the Democrats. The dissatisfied element of four years ago is almost entirely back in line. I look for my district to give the ticket a large majority."

Mr. Kehoe represents the Ninth district in Congress, which up until four years ago was looked up as hopelessly Republican, but he carried it by a small majority, and last year defeated his Republican opponent by 2,200 votes, and the district is now considered safely Democratic.

PITHY POINTS.

Mrs. Nation will likely be more pacific upon the stage than she was in the saloons.

Republicans have one advantage in having Taylor stay in Indiana, they won't be called upon for contributions to defray the expenses of proving his "innocence" in Kentucky courts.

The names of that Frankfort gang would in all probability not be mentioned by Republican speakers during the whole campaign, unless the issue is forced upon them, which assuredly will be the case.

It was thought by some that the disposition that was made of William Goebel was a very desirable one. But now that the assassination with all its hellishness and diabolism has been laid bare, the same crowd are denying all connection with and responsibility for the damnable and dastardly deed.
